OSTEOPATHIC OATH

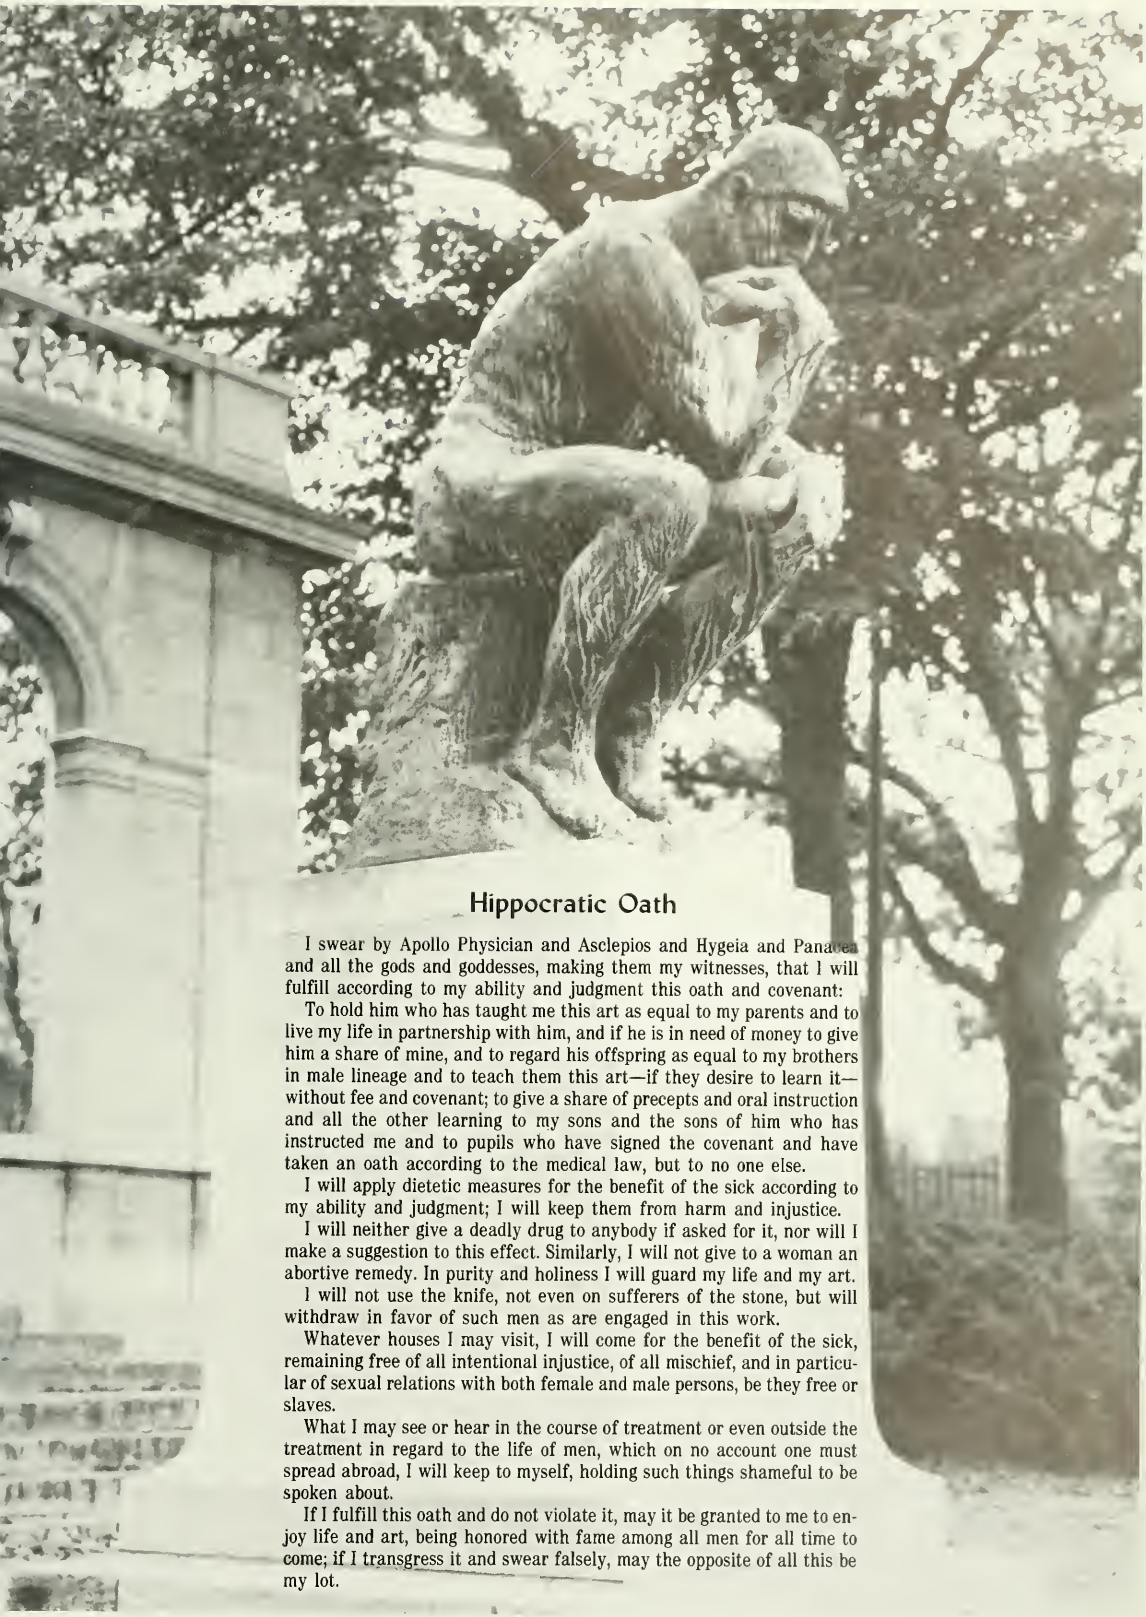
I do hereby affirm my loyalty to the profession I am about to enter.

I will be mindful always of my great responsibility to preserve the health and the life of my patients, to retain their confidence and respect both as a physician and a friend who will guard their secrets with scrupulous honor and fidelity, to perform faithfully my professional duties, to employ only those methods of treatment consistant with good judgement and with my skill and ability, keeping in mind always nature's laws and the body's inherent capacity for recovery.

I will be ever vigilant in aiding in the general welfare of the community, sustaining its laws and institutions, not engaging in those practices which will in any way bring shame or discredit upon myself or my profession. I will give no drugs for deadly purposes to any person, though it be asked of me.

I will endeavor to work in accord with my colleagues in a spirit of progressive cooperation, and never by word or by act cast imputations upon them of their rightful practices.

I will look with respect and esteem upon all those who have taught me my art. To my college I will be loyal and strive always for its best interests and for the interests of the students who will come after me. I will be ever alert to further application of basic biologic truths to the healing arts and to develop the principles of osteopathy which were first enunciated by Andrew Taylor Still.



Hippocratic Oath

I swear by Apollo Physician and Asclepios and Hygeia and Panacea and all the gods and goddesses, making them my witnesses, that I will fulfill according to my ability and judgment this oath and covenant:

To hold him who has taught me this art as equal to my parents and to live my life in partnership with him, and if he is in need of money to give him a share of mine, and to regard his offspring as equal to my brothers in male lineage and to teach them this art—if they desire to learn it—without fee and covenant; to give a share of precepts and oral instruction and all the other learning to my sons and the sons of him who has instructed me and to pupils who have signed the covenant and have taken an oath according to the medical law, but to no one else.

I will apply dietetic measures for the benefit of the sick according to my ability and judgment; I will keep them from harm and injustice.

I will neither give a deadly drug to anybody if asked for it, nor will I make a suggestion to this effect. Similarly, I will not give to a woman an abortive remedy. In purity and holiness I will guard my life and my art.

I will not use the knife, not even on sufferers of the stone, but will withdraw in favor of such men as are engaged in this work.

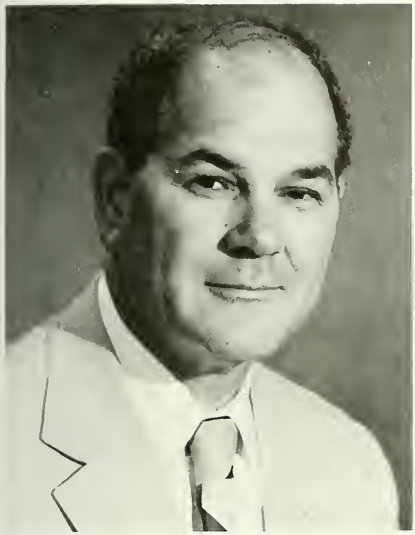
Whatever houses I may visit, I will come for the benefit of the sick, remaining free of all intentional injustice, of all mischief, and in particular of sexual relations with both female and male persons, be they free or slaves.

What I may see or hear in the course of treatment or even outside the treatment in regard to the life of men, which on no account one must spread abroad, I will keep to myself, holding such things shameful to be spoken about.

If I fulfill this oath and do not violate it, may it be granted to me to enjoy life and art, being honored with fame among all men for all time to come; if I transgress it and swear falsely, may the opposite of all this be my lot.

ALL YE WHO ENTER HERE PAUSE AND REMEMBER THAT YOU ARE ENTERING A PROFESSION THAT DEPENDS ON YOUR UNDERSTANDING OF HUMAN COMPASSION. IF YOU FEEL YOU ARE UNABLE, FOR WHATEVER REASON, TO LEND EMOTIONAL SUPPORT TO HUMAN BEINGS THEN TURN AROUND AND GO AWAY.

—Norman Cousins



In Memory Of

WILLIAM H. DICKERSON, D.O.

REMEMBRANCE OF A PHYSICIAN'S PHYSICIAN

Renaissance physicians are few in number and fewer in quality. They are described as individuals who treat holistically. The astute physician is an observer who earns respect from his colleagues and peers. Goethe's maxim quoted from Bates Physical Diagnosis states: "What one knows, one sees." The intuition of a physician to apply his knowledge to generate a differential diagnosis, is an admired characteristic. We are indebted to physicians who consistently dedicate themselves for the betterment of their patients, their families and mankind. Dr. William H. Dickerson has demonstrated these qualities.

We are also indebted to this physician/teacher who had been a leader in teaching students, housestaff and professional colleagues. He has demonstrated insight and foresight into the sundry of medical and ethical issues in today's health care. He has enriched our knowledge base, to allow us to achieve our individual aptitude and can be considered a "physician's physician".

We say goodbye to a husband, father, teacher, professional colleague and friend.

Dear Applicant:

I am pleased to inform you that your application for admission to Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine for the class entering in August 1986 has been favorably acted upon by the Faculty Committee on Admissions. Congratulations upon your acceptance.

You have now taken the first step of your career in osteopathic medicine and have therefore assumed certain responsibilities. Your personal and professional life must reflect the highest standards of moral integrity and professional dedication. In addition, your immediate responsibility is that of maintaining a high level of academic accomplishment. Should you, for whatever reason, fail to maintain high standards in all areas, your acceptance will be automatically withdrawn.

To confirm your place in the Class of 1990, a prepayment of $500 must be received in this office by December 2, 1985. This is a nonrefundable payment and will be applied to your tuition for the Fall Term of 1986.

You are now about to prepare yourself for a career of public service and public trust as an osteopathic physician, a career which will afford you great satisfaction. Again, our congratulations to you. We look forward to welcoming you in August.

Very truly yours,

Carol A. Fox

Your friend is your needs answered.
He is your field which you sow with love and reap with thanksgiving.
And he is your board and your fireside.
For you come to him with your hunger, and you seek him for peace.

When your friend speaks his mind you fear not the 'nay' in your own mind, nor do you withhold the 'ay'.
And when he is silent your heart ceases not to listen to his heart;
For without words, in friendship, all thoughts, all desires, all expectations are born and shared, with joy that is unacclaimed.
When you part from your friend, you grieve not;
For that which you love most in him may be clearer in his absence, as the mountain to the climber is clearer from the plain.
And let there be no purpose in friendship save the deepening of the spirit.
For love that seeks aught but the disclosure of its own mystery is not love but a net cast forth: and only the unprofitable is caught.

And let your best be for your friend.
If he must know the ebb of your tide, let him know its flood also.
For what is your friend that you should seek him with hours to kill?
Seek him always with hours to live.
For it is his to fill your need, but not your emptiness.
And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures.
For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.

To the Class of 1990:

Congratulations on achieving your goal at PCOM.

The status of being a student transformed into an osteopathic physician may, on this day of graduation, appear disbelieving. But, it was not magical. Four years of intensive training, didactic and clinical, is what got you here. Dedication, perseverence, and sometimes disappointment are the qualities which have enabled you to master the concepts of osteopathic medicine that have transformed you into the caring, competent physician that will reflect satisfaction and a sense of fulfillment as you attend to your patients.

I extend to you my best wishes for success and happiness in your chosen profession.

Sincerely,

Dear Senior Class:

As young physicians of the nineties you face many unique challenges. Mistrust of the medical profession, competition and long hours are now burdens you assume. Despite these, the most nagging fears are the ones of self doubt. Questions of competency and ability lead to many sleepless nights.

As a young osteopathic physician I am sure you share these concerns. I surely did. Let me remind you, though, of your heritage. The principles and tenants that you have learned in the last four years arm you well for the battles ahead. Our profession is rich in tradition, high in its standards and lofty in its goals. You have been trained by the best, the first truly American originators of the holistic concept of medicine, the osteopathic physicians have been physician. Osteopathy and osteopathic physicians have been synonymous with excellence since their inception. For you to be otherwise, for you not to succeed, would be against our nature.

I have the utmost confidence in this class and our osteopathic profession. I am proud to have been involved in your training. I commend and welcome my new colleagues.

Best of Luck,

Dear Class of 1990:

Your years at PCOM are an intense experience and it will take some time to appreciate how much you have learned and how deep the relationships are that you formed here. The experience is intense for Faculty and Administration also. Your education is why we are here. We enjoy you as students and take pride in the reflected glory of your professional accomplishments. Most of you will be eagerly anticipating leaving PCOM and moving on to the next phase in your careers. That is the way it should be, but remember where you started in the years ahead. Help us do a better job of osteopathic education by keeping in touch through the Alumni Association, providing educational experiences for students like yourselves and financially supporting PCOM's future.

The Faculty and Administration are a surprisingly sentimental bunch. We will miss you. Your enthusiasm and energy are refreshing. At other times, you challenge our ability to motivate and inform. Either way, you have brought yourselves to us to become osteopathic physicians and we appreciate that. We look forward to seeing you back on campus.

Osteopathic

It has been a privilege to have been associated with you, the Class of 1990 - to have been a part of your faculty and assist you in obtaining a good osteopathic education. It excites me to have participated in your concerns. For instance, teaching you menial tasks such as history and physicals. I remember the looks on your faces as you were confronted for the first time with the standardized patient model at the close of your sophomore year. I have enjoyed watching you learn and advance. Consequently, you have become more sure of yourselves. I feel good and consider it an honor having been a part of this process.

Congratulations and welcome to our osteopathic world. You have served yourselves well. Continue to learn and advance, cherish your osteopathic heritage. If you do so, you will be rewarded in your professional career. Listen, speak soft tender words to your patients, and make them realize how much you really care. Be a part of their lives.

You make me proud to send you out to provide health care for the world. As you have heard me say many times, the end product of these last four years is an excellent osteopathic physician. We congratulate you!

I speak for the many instructors you have interfaced with while at PCOM. I thank them for their contribution to the excellent product - a wholesome and caring osteopathic physician.

God bless each of you and your families. Remember us, honor your profession and come back to see us. We love you.

"Sorrow can take care of itself, but to get the true benefit of joy, you must share it."

Mark Twain

Is there some problem in your life to solve,
Some passage seeming full of mystery?
God knows, who brings the hidden things to light.
He keeps the key.

Is there some door closed by the Father's hand
Which widely opened you had hoped to see?
Trust God and wait - for when He shuts the door
He keeps the key.

Is there some earnest prayer unanswered yet,
Or answered not as you had thought 'twould be?
God will make clear His purpose by-and-by.
He keeps the key.

Have patience with your God, your patient God,
All wise, all knowing, no long tarrier He,
And of the door of all thy future life
He keeps the key.

Unfailing comfort, sweet and blessed rest,
To know of every door He keeps the key.
That He at last when just He sees 'tis best,
Will give it Thee.

Osteopathic

Dear Fellow Classmates,

Can I have your attention for some important announcements? ... I do not know why I started off like this, it never accomplished anything before. We really have been through a lot together these last four years, and I feel that for the most part we have stuck together. There were rocky times like the absolute nightmare and fiasco of mandatory attendence, and the exam schedules that went on forever; but there were also some really fun times like the follies, the post final gatherings, and the Halloween class with Dr. Meals. Through it all I feel folks had a true concern for their classmates.

I would like to leave you with a few favorite quotes. "A sorrow shared is a sorrow halved, a joy shared is a joy doubled" German proverb. Somewhere along the way we were taught to always stay emotionally detached from our patients, for to get too close would just be too time consuming, too draining. I have to disagree. Naturally through the long training process and over the years we become callous. We have to be committed in the attempt to experience what a person is going through emotionally when dealing with a particular disease. How else can we treat the 'whole patient' and practice holistic medicine? Let us reach out and truly touch our patients; the awards are more than we can imagine.

A particularly irritating trait that I have witnessed in myself (and I hope you have been able to avoid) is how suddenly judgmental I become when dealing with a patient who is self-abusive, i.e. drugs, alcohol, and tobacco, those who are ill because of a certain sexual preference, or those few who despite being on full medical assistance can at times be very demanding and unappreciative. Often I must force myself to look beyond this first impression and focus on the fact that the person I am seeing is physically ill and is trusting me with their well-being. As Martin Luther King, Jr. once said: "We pardon in the degree that we love."

Do not be afraid, little flock, for your Father has been pleased to give you the kingdom. Sell your possessions and give to the poor. Provide purses for yourselves that will not wear out, a treasure in heaven that will not be exhausted, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys. For where your treasure is, there your heart will also be. Luke 12: 32-34

Medicine is a very challenging and dynamic field. I am sure we will experience some drastic changes in the health care system during the period ahead. As we are turned loose,it will be up to each of us to decide by which codes we will practice by and which oaths and traditions we will hold fast. "The practice of medicine is an art, not a trade; a calling, not a business." Osler

Good luck and God speed,

In loving memory to Gidu, who I never really got to know, but I will always feel your presence.

In loving memory to Grandma, I did it!!! I know you will always be with me.

To Mom and Dad, thank you is simply not enough. You made all of my dreams come true. You have given me pride, you have given me confidence, and you have given me the greatest joy of all, life!

To Dave, thanks bro, you're the greatest! Love ya.

To Lu Ann, my private secretary and special friend, thank you.

To my friends and relatives, thank you for all of your support.

To God, thank you for your help and Guidance!

Adrienne E. Apatoczky, D.O.

I dedicate the last four years as well as my career to my extraordinary family who has loved, supported, and encouraged me through all of my endeavors. They have made endless sacrifices so that my dream could become reality. Thank you Dad, Mom, and Jane. I couldn't have done it without you! I thank our Lord for the many blessings He has bestowed upon me, and ask that He forever guide my life. Lastly, I dedicate this page in memory of my grandmother, my second mother, who would have been so proud to see me fulfill my dream. Though she has left this world, her spirit remains with me. I especially wish to thank my dear sister Jane for her unending wit and sense of humor that have meant so much to me over the years.

Kimberly Ann Atkinson, D.O.

To my family . . . all of my love and respect for your boundless and unconditional love, fortifying support and endurance.

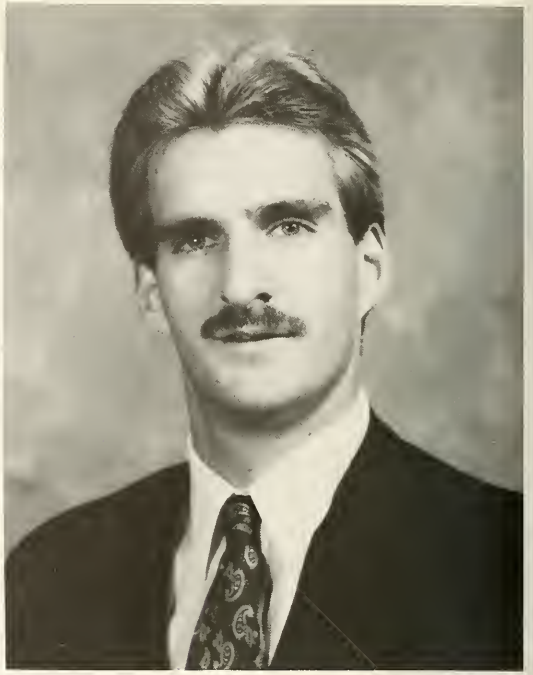
To my friends . . . all of my friendship and appreciation for 'walking down the road together and memories made forever'.

Love, Kim

To me, fair friend, you can never be old,
For as you were when first your eye I ey'd,
Such seems your beauty still. Three winters cold
Have from the forests shook three summers' pride,
Three beauteous springs to yellow autumn turn'd
In process of the seasons have I seen,
Three April perfumes in three hot Junes burn'd,
Since first I saw you fresh, which yet are green.
Ah! yet doth beauty, like a dial-hand,
Steal from his figure, and no pace perceiv'd;
So your sweet hue, which methinks still doth stand,
Hath motion, and mine eye may be deceiv'd:
For fear of which, hear this, thou age unbred:
Ere you were born was beauty's summer dead.

-Shakespeare

William H. Bailey, Jr., D.O.



On the day I become a D.O., I have much for which to be thankful. My friends and family, I thank you for being there to share and enjoy this experience. Mom and Dad, I thank you for your SUPPORT, guidance and love through the years. And Laurie, I thank you for your support, perserverance, patience and most of all your LOVE.

Randy Blake Barnett, D.O.

This page is dedicated to the memory of my Grandmother, whose love and guidance is greatly missed.

Special thanks to:
-my mother, father, and sister for all their love and support
-my Aunt Ann and Uncle Norman for helping me get through it all
-Lynne for her love and understanding
-my friends for keeping me sane

"Attempt the end, and never stand to doubt; Nothing is so hard but search will find it out." (R. Lovelace) This is the foundation upon which I have built my career as an Osteopathic Physician; I am proud to be a member of this profession and my optimism about the future and my D.O. degree reflects my gratitude to PCOM and the AOA for representing the epitome of Osteopathic holism and philosophy.

SOMA or 'Students on the Move Again' has provided me with much personal growth as well as fulfillment in accomplishing goals within our profession. I was very privileged to represent Osteopathic medical students and add my continued support to its new leaders for providing great services and benefits. "Your efforts will become the attributes of all D.O.'s and aid them in their career opportunities and touch many lives by furthering the profession."

"Life is truth to you in proportion to what you know about it."—A.T. Still

To my colleagues whom I met nationally and my friends at PCOM and in my past, I will cherish my relationship with you always and am forever thankful for your friendships. I wish you all the best of luck in the future with your careers and hope no matter which path you choose, you always remain loyal to the Osteopathic Profession.

To my mother, sister Susie, and grandparents—I could never have made it through medical school without your support, love, and guidance. This degree represents your belief in me and my intense love for all of you.

To the profession—I truly D.O. care—look out Pittsburgh, here I come!!

Lindsay Benedict, D.O.

Irma Lisa Bensinger, D.O.

To my family, for helping me in life. As I've grown older I've come to appreciate all you have done for me and the importance of being a part of a family. Although I don't always show it, I love you all dearly. And to my friends, may we always be together in spirit even when we are far apart.

"When we see men of worth, we should think of equaling them;
When we see men of a countrary character, we shold turn inward and examine ourselves."

To Mom, Dad, Anthony and the rest of the Yeagertown gang. Thank you for all your love and support. Without your help, I'd have never made it through the 20th grade!

To all my friends- from Hawaii, to Philly, to Erie. Thanks for making it all so great! Who said Medicine has to be your life?

What can I say . . . My family is and always will be my strength and support. They have been there through thick and thin and I will be forever grateful.

Medical school has held many important decisions and events. All of these, however, seem miniscule in comparison with finding Melissa again. She has made my life complete as our relationship grows stronger with each passing day.

Thanks to all of those special people in my life who have helped me achieve this worthwhile accomplishment:

To my family and in-laws, thanks for all the advice, support, and encouragement you have granted me;

A special word of thanks to my wife, Elisa - we've helped each other through it all; from 3AM anatomy lab and OPP practical study sessions to National Boards, internship and beyond. Thank you for being an important part of my life and helping make the last four years memorable.

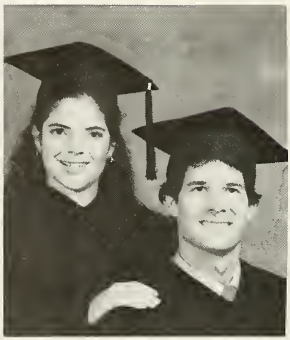
Gave up to pay my tuition



Elisa Shipon-Blum, D.O.

I dedicate this page to those who have had the greatest influence on my life . . . Thank you and I love you all.

To Mom and Dad: Thanks for all your love, encouragement and confidence. You've made me what I am today. Thanks for knowing what was best for me; and Dad, you've got a partner!!

To Marc and David: the best brothers and best friends anyone could wish for. Thanks for always being there. "Dr. Lee-Ya-to-Believe-Ya . . . Stat!"

To Grandmom Bess: You too knew medicine was for me. Your unselfish love and guidance means the world to me.

In loving memory of my Grandpop Bernard: I did it! I know you would be proud . . . your little doctor. Your invaluable words of advice, your encouragement, love, and generosity are forever in my heart.

And finally, to my husband Ron: From the first day of orientation through graduation you were right by my side. We studied together, laughed and 'pouted' together, and we succeeded together; we encouraged each other and praised each other . . . we've done it all together! We are definitely partners for life, and you are without a doubt, the love of my life.

THE MEDICAL STUDENT

A medical student is a rare breed
"I have no life," that is his creed.

Up at dawn and asleep just before
With one constant thought, "Just a few years more."

He sits all day and listens to those
Who fill him with facts right up to his nose.

He reads his eyes blind and for one future cause
To be on top and to make his own laws.

Lecture after lecture it just doesn't end
And by 3 o'clock he can feel his brain bend.

What a life with little to boast
and he owes to every bank on the east coast.

His back's in a knot and his legs have no feel
And on the way to school he fell asleep at the wheel.

10 o'clock comes and his chin's on his book
And by lunch time I wouldn't even dare look.

He does it all for a goal and it is worth it all
But at this time he just can't seem to recall.

Mom and Dad, thanks for knowing when to be there and knowing when to let me stand on my own. Your love and caring have always been with me.

Edie and Joe, your encouragement and support have meant a lot.

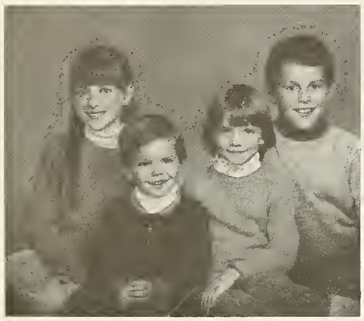
Denise, you were a great roomie and a wonderful friend. The best is yet to come.

Cathy, thank you for everything.

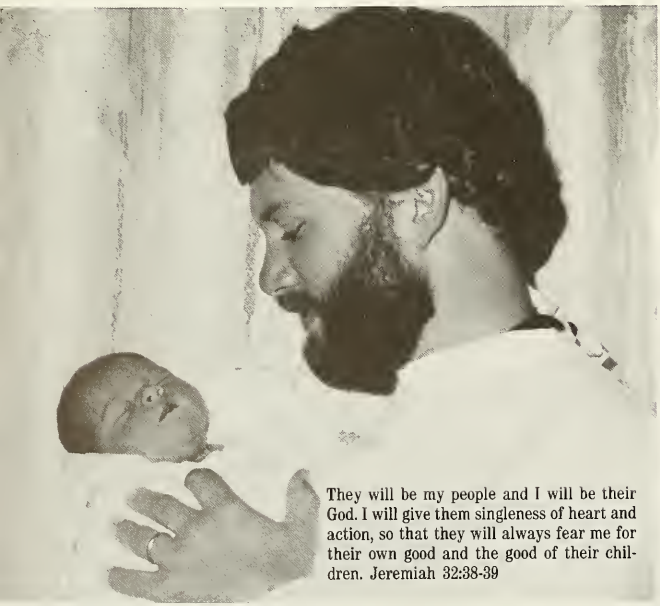
Most importantly, dear Beau, your love has carried me through. I treasure our quiet moments, and building a life together means more to me than anything I have ever done or will ever do. Thank you for being my real world. I love you.

P.S. Aunt Shellie, thanks for sending me the article. I miss you very much.

Craig D. Cameron, D.O.



Lord, thank you for my wife who loves me, challenges me, and helps me keep my priorities straight. For our children, true blessings from you, they show us what real faith is. For our families who have so freely given—encouragement, kindness and substance. And for your Son, Jesus, who gives us life.



They will be my people and I will be their God. I will give them singleness of heart and action, so that they will always fear me for their own good and the good of their children. Jeremiah 32:38-39

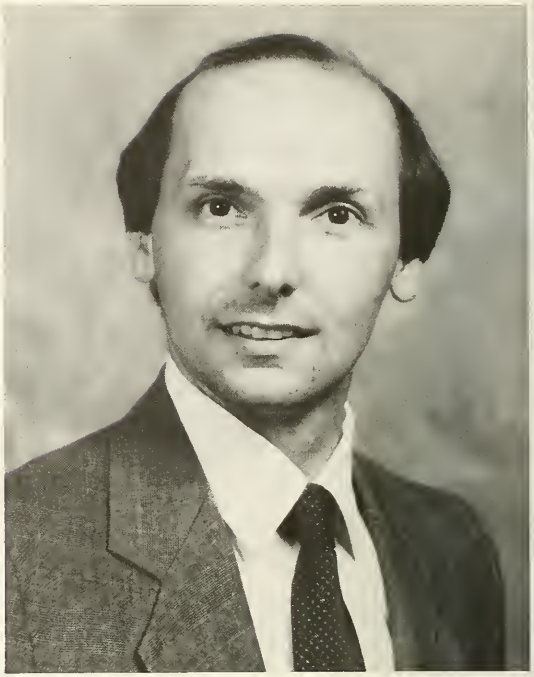
Christopher Robert Damico, D.O.



Where do I begin? When a person first decides to take on a challenge, like becoming a physician, you realize it will be a hard and demanding task requiring a great deal of support and encouragement. In my case, I underestimated the amount of support it would take. Unfortunately, during the past four years, I have often neglected to tell all those people, who were always behind me, how much I love them and how much I thank them for all they've given me. This is my opportunity to do just that.

First, to the Lord God, who has helped me through some very difficult times in my life and has always given me strength and solace.

To my parents, who have never doubted me and have always encouraged me. To my Dad, who has taught me to persevere and to always be the best I can possibly be. To my Mom, who has taught me the meaning of love and the value of compassion.

To my sister and brother, who have made me believe that I should never let my dreams die and have also shown me how to enjoy life and live it to its fullest.

To my niece and nephews, who have always brought me joy, happiness, and love.

To my friends, who have always been there to "pick me up" and have always kept me a part of their lives.

Last, but never least, to my wife—my strength, my heart and soul, my love, and my life, we made it together. I could have never done it without you!

For all those times I've forgotten to say it, I love you all and thank you for everything!

Thank you Lord for carrying me,
For the Mom & Dad who showed the same unselfish love and sacrifice.
For the loving support and friendship of three caring sisters.
For the joy in sharing my life with Laurie.
For letting me serve you.
I love you.

This page is dedicated to all of the people who made these last 4 years worthwhile:

To Mom and Dad: You're my soul and my inspiration.
To Mike: A great brother and a great friend.
To Grandmoms and In-Laws: Finally, a doctor in the family!
To Garbs, Liss, Pooh, Fink and the "Chalfont Crew": Old friendships kept and new ones made.
And most of all, to Barbara/Barb/Babs: My wife, my love and my best friend.

Love, Chris

If it was possible I would fill this page with a picture of each one of them. I hope you all realize how much I love you. This goal seemed unattainable but with some good fortune, family support and a lot of sweat it has become a reality.

THANKS . . .

To my parents for believing in me every step of the way. You took an eight year old's dream and helped make it reality. Without your love and guidance I would not be where I am. Just remember the distance means nothing because I carry you in my heart everyday of my life. I LOVE YOU!

To Helene & Mindi, I never thought so much studying could be so much fun. I'll never forget the places (my apts, textile, Mindi's house, her Grandmom's place), all the food (popcorn, China Wok, Coventry), all the OMT, all the reviews and all the exams. Extra thanks to Helene for without her house at LBI and her pasta salad, I would have never passed the boards. You guys kept me going even when I was brain dead.

To Mom & Dad E., Jill and Grandmom—All your understanding and support gave me that extra boost of love to keep me going.

To Scott, you started out quite innocently as my LOG brother/study partner and then swept me off my feet. Now you are my love, my inspiration and my best friend. When times get crazy and I feel like giving up, you're always there to tell me I'll get through it. You not only made Med School bearable, but you made it the best time of my life. I know the next few years are tough, but together our love will stand the test of time. LOVE YA!

This page is dedicated to all of those people who have made this dream come true:

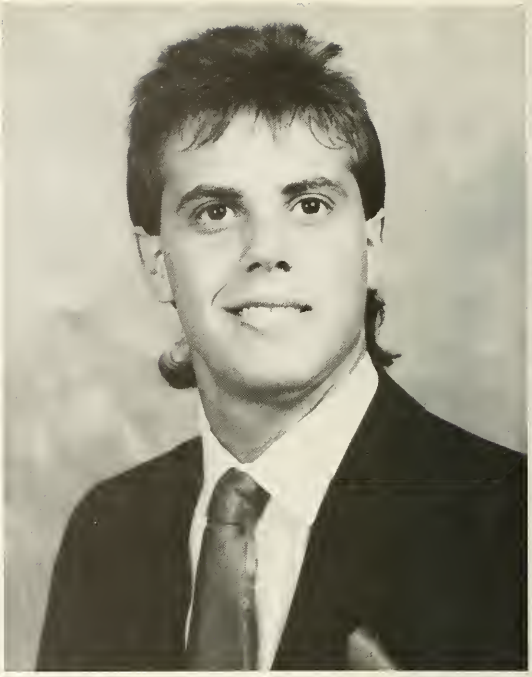
To my parents, whose love and support made even the dearest times not seem so dim, for always taking the time to listen, and for always believing in me. I love you both very much.

To my brother, Rob who always took the time to listen, to make holidays extra special and to slip me a few dollars in a colgate box. You are the best, a friend as well as a brother.

To Nancie, who made the first two years unforgettable. You are a special person and a great friend. I am very lucky to have you in my life.

To my classmates, who are truly a great group of people. You have made the last four years the best. I wish you all happiness, health and prosperity. I am proud to have been a part of the Class of 1990. What a great group of doctors!

Craig Alan Garfield, D.O.



Thanks and Love:

-To Mom and Dad, for all you've done for me over the years and for all the love you've given me. I love you very much.

-To Lisa, looking forward to spending our lives together. Love you forever.

-To Marc, good luck in school and we'll be partners some day.

-To Grandmom and Grandpop, you've always been special to me and I hope I've made you proud.

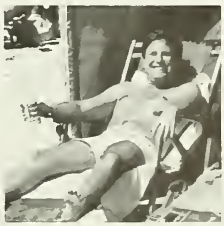
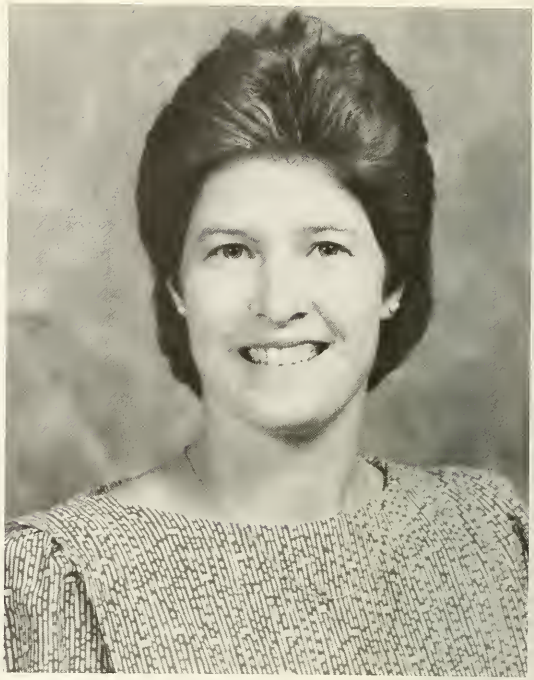
JIM, you have been the inspiration and encouragement that has made this dream come true for us. Thank you for all the patience, kindness, love and understanding and especially all the laughs—it has made these 4 years bearable. You are the love of my life and being married to you will be wonderful! I LOVE YOU!!! Freddie

MOM and DAD, thank you for your love and support over the years. I couldn't have done it without you. I love you! your bag-lady daughter, Chris.

To the rest of my family and friends, especially Denise and Lou, thanks for your friendship, encouragement and love, it has kept me sane through all of this, and made it fun! Love, Chris



Christine Frances Giesa, D.O.



To Frank, my best friend and husband. You always expressed unwavering faith in my abilities and supported me through all of those sleepless nights of study. Your enduring love and devotion has been inspiring. I am extremely fortunate to have such a husband and colleague as yourself.

To a very special person in my life. You taught me to believe in myself and to persue my dreams, but most of all, you taught me how to love unselfishly. You were always a phone call away to share my newest excitements and disappointments.

On June 3, 1990 my most intense dream will be transformed into reality. The road to this goal was not traveled alone but with the strong support of many, without whose help, this realization would not be possible. This page is dedicated to them.

-To my parents who instilled within me a sense of values, pride & a work ethic; your support and love were always present.

-To my best friend, my colleague, and my wife - when the going got tough, you got me going. Your love and devotion are unending.

-To my grandparents although 4,000 miles away, you inspired me to tackle the seemingly unachievable with a sense of humor. Your pride and love overcame the distance.

-To my friends especially Ron, Joan, Glenn, John & Dr. Z - your support, encouragement, and friendship proved to be invaluable.

MY HEARTFELT THANKS TO YOU ALL!

MY THANKS -

To Mom and Dad, for all your love and support, both emotional and financial, throughout the years. I couldn't have done it without you.

To my friends, we've been through a lot together, both good times and bad: high school, camp, college, medical school, etc. You have always been there for me and that has made a long rough road seem much shorter and smoother.

To my family, teachers, and other special people with whom I have shared my life, for supporting me as I strived to reach my goals.

COMES THE DAWN

After a while you learn the subtle difference
Between holding a hand and chaining a soul
And you learn that love doesn't mean security
And you begin to learn that kisses aren't contracts
And presents aren't promises
And you begin to accept your defeats
With your head up and your eyes open
With the grace of a woman, not the grief of a child
And you learn to build all your roads
On today because tomorrow's ground
Is too uncertain. And futures have
A way of falling down in midflight,
After a while you learn that even sunshine burns if you get too much.
So you plant your own garden and decorate your own soul, instead of waiting
For someone to bring you flowers
And you learn that you really can endure . . . . . .
That you are really strong
And you really do have worth
And you learn and learn
With every goodbye you learn.

I wish to thank the following people for making this day possible:

Mom, for always being there to cheer me up and keep me smiling. Thanks for listening and for all you've done to make things easier for me. Especially thank you for caring for Jimmy and loving him as much as you do.

Dad, for all the support and encouragement you've given me over the years. Thanks for always letting me know how proud you are and for standing behind me in all I've done.

Jim, these past four years have not always been easy, but they really haven't been that bad either, thanks to you. Your love, support and willingness to help have gotten me through many long days. Without you this would have been a lot tougher than it was. I look forward to many more years of fun together. I love you.

Jimmy, your beautiful smile is so nice to come home to. Thanks for always reminding me where my priorities lie.

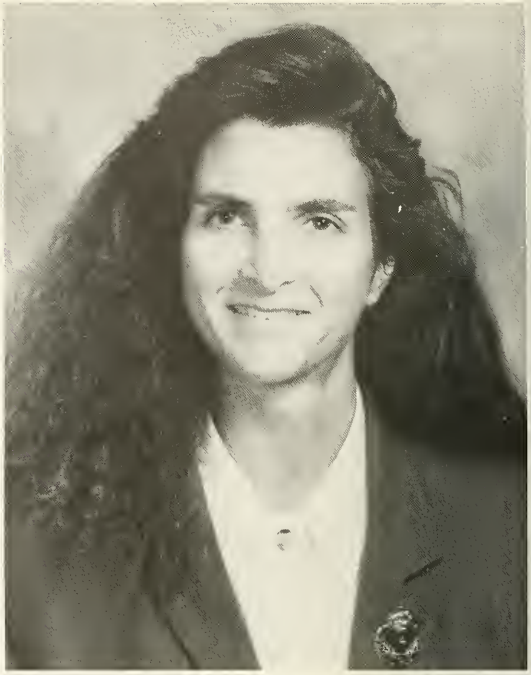
Mary T. Martucci, D.O.



Michele Matthews-Mlakar, D.O.

I dedicate this page to the people who helped me get this far.

To my father and Roy's parents: You helped us out when we needed you most.

Mara: You made me laugh when I was ready to cry and you kept my life in perspective.

Roy: You always supported my dream and encouraged me even through the rough times. I will always love you and look forward to spending our life together.

Mom: I wish you were here to see me graduate because you are a big reason why I made it.

Without God's strength and guidance I never would have done it. Thanks to all of you.

My life long dream of one day becoming a physician, has finally come to be. While I look to the future, I would like to take a moment, to reflect back and thank the special people in my life.

First, my Mother & Father, whose love and support gave me the confidence, not only to become a physician, but to become a better person. Thank you Mom and Dad, you gave me life and love, and I can only hope my children love and respect me, as I do you.

Next, I would like to thank my brothers Ricky and Andrew for always being there for me.

I would like to dedicate this page in loving memory of my grandfather, Mike Luber. I know had he been alive today, he would have been very proud.

I would also like to thank my grandparents, Rose Luber and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller for their love and encouragement through the years.

No person I have ever known, has had the patience and understanding of my beloved fiancee Ronna Jordan. I look forward to a long and happy life together.

Finally, I would like to wish all of my friends and classmates best of luck in all of their future endeavors.

Theresa M. Moore, D.O.

Heartfelt thanks to those individuals who have made these past four years worthwhile. Without the love, support, and faith of my mother, father, sisters, grandparents, and dear friends, I never would have had the courage to continue this far. Thank-you all for being a part of my life.

Special thanks to . . .

JULIANNE: for being there as always; just one more great memory together. I love you.
MOM & DAD: a successful son means successful parents. Be proud . . . of yourselves!
MY GRANDPARENTS: for teaching me how to work hard.
UNCLE D. & AUNT P.: for keeping an eye on me from N.J.
UNCLE J. & the JAYS: for the $ and a car that runs.
MY BEST FRIENDS: Jim & Chris, and Adika; I couldn't have done it without you and I hope we don't lose touch. Good luck to you and everyone!

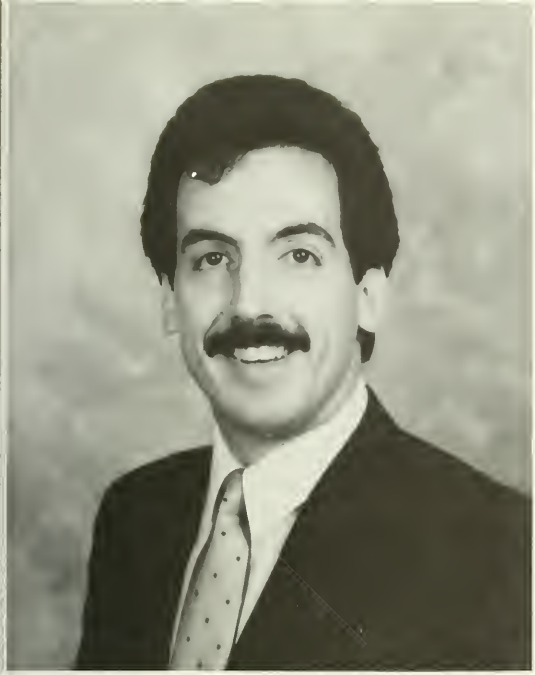
To Mom and Dad, who have always been there to guide and encourage me, I could not have done this without you.
To Kathy, Sue, Joe, Tracey, and Mike for their continuing support.

Lori Jill Patent, D.O.



Andrew P. Pecora, D.O.

To my parents: Thank you for all the encouragement and direction, and for never expecting too much of me. You were always there when I needed you, which was often . . . I LOVE YOU. To my grandmother: whose prayers I always relied on so heavily.

To my Best Men/ my brothers: I'll be there to support you as you supported me. I Love you.

To my wife Sue: We went through a lot during this long, hard 4 years, and when it was over, you were my wife. Thank you for all the love you sent my way when I needed it most. My love to you always.

This page is dedicated to all the people who were there to help me along this long road called medical school. For without them all, I surely would have run out of gas.

To my roommates: who supplied just enough diversions to keep this journey fun.

To my friends: who made this journey with me. I think we made it . . . intact.

To Paul and Andrea: The next generation.

THIS PAGE IS DEDICATED WITH SINCEREST APPRECIATION TO:
MY PARENTS: THANK-YOU FOR YOUR UNENDING SUPPORT BOTH FINANCIALLY AND MORALLY, AND FOR YOUR INEXHAUSTIBLE LOVE: YOU LOVED ME THROUGH ALL THE BAD TIMES AND CONTINUED TO ENCOURAGE ME TO HURDLE ALL THE OBSTACLES THAT BLOCKED MY PATH.
MY SISTER AND BROTHERS: THANKS FOR TOLERATING ME THROUGH ALL OF MY GROUCHY YEARS.
MY DOUBLE MUG PARTNER: BARB; WE'VE FINALLY MADE IT! AND TO ALL MY FAMILY WHOSE ENDLESS NOVENAS REALLY HELPED.

In the Battle of Life, it is not the critic who matters; who tells of how the strong man hath faltered or how a deed could have been done better. The credit belongs to the man in the arena; who's face is marred by dust and blood and sweat; who strives valiantly yet falters again and again, who at best will one day savor the fruits of victory, and who at worst will have the satisfaction of knowing he fought the noble fight so that his place will never be with those cold and timid souls who have tasted neither victory nor defeat.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many friends I have made during the medical school odyssey we all embarked upon four years ago. You've kept me sane in a sea of frequent lunacy and punctuated these times with great and lasting memories.

However, it is with great respect and love that I dedicate this page to the two people who have generously sustained, supported, and encouraged my educational endeavors since my very first days of school. Thank-you Mom and Dad, and God bless you.

The Road Not Taken

There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries,
On such a sea are we now afloat,

Or lose our ventures.

"Family, Thanks for everything."

It is appropriate at this time to give thanks to those whose dreams, wishes, and prayers served as a source of strength and inspiration to me in my efforts to become a physician.

To my parents, whose words and support cannot be measured, I especially want to thank you for teaching me to REACH OUT FOR MY DREAMS.

To my sister and brother-in-law, who opened their hearts and their home to me as I began my trek to medical school.

To my brother, whose frequent calls reminded me of the truth of a desire for a refined and impassioned goal and the possibilities of the human spirit.

To my friends — both real and imagined, who seized that one golden moment to say that one word, that one phrase, to express their confidence and offer their humble blessings.

PEACE BE WITH YOU ALL

To my grandparents who have passed away before my graduation I dedicate this page.
To my parents who have given me their unconditional love as well as their unyielding support.
To my mother. Mom we have lived the dream and now the dream is reality. More importantly I have not forgotten where I have come from.
To my father. The most successful man I know. Hey pops, not bad for the son of an immigrant.
To my sister. Your constant hard work and determination have always impressed me, keep your sights focused and you will achieve your goals. Thank God you graduated.
The pictures on this page are of the whole family. In some small way each person has contributed to my goal. The picture of the children should remind us that they are now the future.
Thank-you God for letting me live the American dream!!!

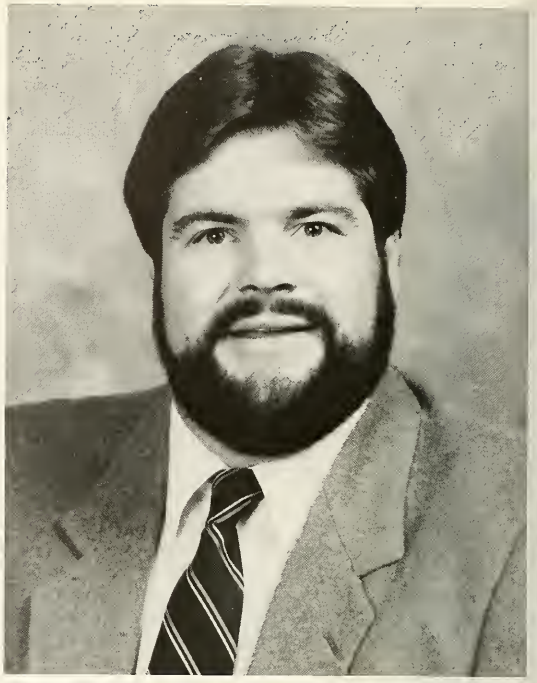
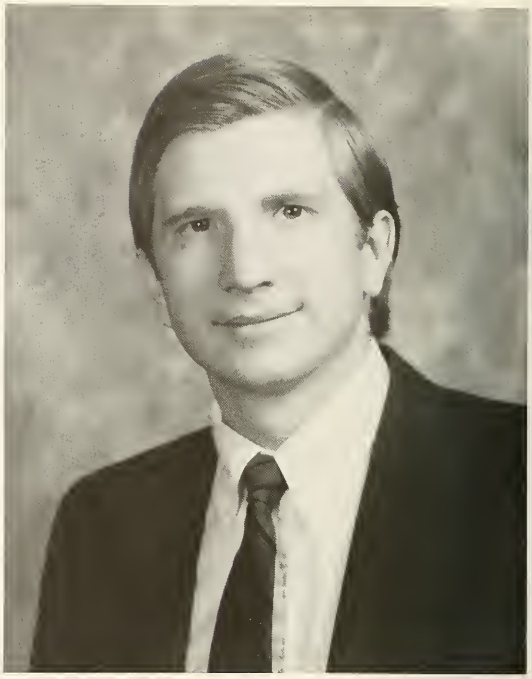
Timothy C. Schmeltzle, D.O.



Henry R. Schuitema, D.O.

I would like to dedicate my medical degree to all of those people who made it possible: To Susan, my beautiful wife, who's unyielding love and support gave me the strength to endure those rough times. Thanks for your never ending love. I couldn't have picked a better person to build a future with.
To Mom and Dad, who taught me at a very young age that I was good enough to overcome any obstacle. I would never have made it this far without your love, inspiration, and guidance. I love you both so very much.
To Cor, DJ, and Butt, the greatest sisters and brother in the world - who were always there to share great times with, and to lend a shoulder to lean on.
And special thanks to the NEW YORK GIANTS who gave me four glorious years of bragging rights!

Brian Anthony Selius, D.O.



Thank you to my understanding wife Rima, my wonderful children Emily and Claire, to Mom and Dad, my brother Glenn, Nettie and Iz. You all helped me accomplish my dream. And finally, to the patients, all of whom helped me learn so much along the way.

This page is dedicated to:

My parents, June and Neil, and to my brothers and sisters, for all their support and encouragement given through out my academic endeavors.

My daughter Jacqueline, for being so understanding of the constraints placed upon my time and for being resilient to making the most of the time spent together.

My soul brother Schill, who kept me sane through out our tour of duty in Philly.

My best friend Barbara, who's love, friendship, and companionship gave meaning to the past four years.

As I go through my life from day to day, there are certain people who touch my life in so many ways . . .

My family - Especially my parents and grandparents who are there to offer their unending support and who somehow always manage to help me out in a pinch. I can only hope that I can do the same for them someday.

My friends - Friends from home, college, medical school, and friends I have made along the way. THANKS for your love, concern, kindness, laughter, patience, and for all those times you all made me realize what it means to be living life and enjoying it to the fullest. No matter how close or far apart we may be, friendship goes the distance.

Andy - Though these next few years may take us miles apart, my heart will always be with you. THANKS for always listening with closed lips while opening your heart, allowing me the freedom to be me, and for your constant inspiration to be more.

And most of all - THANKS to God above for my many blessings in life and for always being there beside me in this journey through life.

In all you do, put God first, and he will direct and crown your efforts with success.

"Our Kids"

ALL I REALLY NEED TO KNOW about how to live and what to do and how to be I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate-school mountain, but there in the sandpile at Sunday School. These are the things I learned:

Share everything.
Play fair.
Don't hit people.
Put things back where you found them.
Clean up your own mess.
Don't take things that aren't yours.
Say you're sorry when you hurt somebody.
Wash your hands before you eat.
Flush.
Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you.
Live a balanced life—learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work every day some.
Take a nap every afternoon.
When you go out into the world, watch out for traffic, hold hands, and stick together.
Be aware of wonder. Remember that little seed in the styrofoam cup: The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows why, but we are all like that.
Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the styrofoam cup—they all die. So do we.
And then remember the Dick-and-Jane books and the first word you learned—the biggest word of all—LOOK.

EDITORS' NOTE

As you flip through the pages of Synapsis '90, bear in mind that its creators weren't professionals. They were medical students just as yourself with little extra time for all of the work that a project such as this one entails. Occasionally you will notice something that seems out of place or an occasional slice of humor wedged in among the memories. These most likely were our last expression of sanity as 2:00 A.M. approached the morning before a deadline.

This yearbook is a reflection of our entire class. It would not have come about without the effort of our staff who spent their time arranging and rearranging, organizing and reorganizing, creating and recreating its pages. To those individuals, who dedicated a remarkable amount of time and energy to this book, we give our heartfelt thanks.

Additionally, we would like to thank all of the seniors who submitted pages. Although some were late (OK - MOST), all of them captured the uniqueness of the individual it represented.

Finally, many, many, thanks to our support team - our families, friends, and roommates who endured the numerous phone calls, our "occasional" complaining, and who always seemed to understand when we had to go "do the yearbook."

We could never have imagined the enormous undertaking that we began almost two years ago. Despite the numerous headaches and difficult decisions, we enjoyed the opportunity and are excited with the outcome. We hope you agree.

Sincerely,

Howard and Terri

The Office Of The Dean

Congratulate you upon your graduation from Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. This achievement has involved your willingness to travel a long and difficult road for the past four years. We are proud of your intelligence, your tenacity and above all your commitment to the osteopathic profession.

You have entered a demanding professional community that will offer you great opportunities to contribute to service, research and education. We are confident in our hopes for your future—a future full of work and reward—and proud of the strength of character that you have demonstrated and will continue to demonstrate.

To Our Son

JEFFREY N. ELFENBEIN, D.O.

May your life be blessed with good health, prosperity, the ability to enjoy life's pleasures and yet be adaptable to deal with the adversities of everyday living.

Look at and listen to the patient and the diagnosis many times is obvious. Remember, time is the best doctor.

Be slow to criticize, capable of praise, honest to yourself, receptive to your teachers, professional in your demeanor and dedicated to your patients. You will then be respected amongst your colleagues.

This is a formula for a happy, successful and satisfying personal and professional career.

Some of America's Brightest Osteopathic Medical Students Are Becoming Its Brightest Doctors at Union Hospital

How does a teaching hospital measure the worth of its medical education program?

It is measured by its commitment to education. . . by the expertise of its medical staff. . . and by its record of success in the health care field.

Union Hospital's commitment to education is evidenced by the key role its interns play on each physician's team. The expertise of its medical staff ensures that the Hospital maintains a high patient census, allowing interns to become involved in direct patient management not only on the medical floors, but also in the critical care areas. Union Hospital's record of success means that interns and residents are constantly exposed to innovation in technology, patient care and health services.

With 18 approved internship positions, and a medical education program consisting of 300 teaching beds, Union Hospital invites you to shape your professional goals amid the setting of a nationally-recognized community hospital.

Residency programs are provided in:

- Internal Medicine
- General Practice
- Emergency Medicine
- Proctology
- General Surgery
- Otolaryngology/Facial Plastic Surgery

Easton Hospital Residency Programs

University Affiliation.
As a major teaching affiliate of Hahnemann University School of Medicine, Easton Hospital is the site for regular third year medical and surgical rotations; fourth year medical and surgical electives; and internal medicine, surgery, and transitional year residencies of outstanding quality.

High Passing Rates.
Easton residents pass their examinations! In addition, Easton Hospital has an outstanding record for placing graduates in quality subspecialty programs.

Hands-On Experience.
Our dynamic combination of "learning by doing" plus excellent supervision brings results: our graduating surgical residents were recently rated better than the 90th percentile in the number of complex surgical procedures performed.

Patient Diversity.
The wide variety of clinical pathology diagnosed and treated at Easton Hospital's state-of-the-art facility is comparable to that experienced at university centers. Most of our patients are diagnosed and treated first at Easton Hospital, not after evaluation elsewhere.

Excellent Practice Opportunities.
Young physicians seeking to start a practice find the metropolitan area surrounding Easton a "land of opportunity." The Lehigh Valley offers an attractive environment, a rapidly growing professional population, low unemployment and proximity to NYC and Philadelphia -- ideal for establishing successful medical practices.

Let Easton Hospital show you how our programs can help prepare you for a successful and fulfilling career.
Call the Director of the Department of Medicine, Dr. Kenneth Wildrick (215-250-4013) or the Director of the Department of Surgery, Dr. George Watkins (215-250-4014).
